

In today's globalised world, lawyers and experts of international studies face the challenge of the application of a widening set of legal rules. Legal studies are inevitable for all Students, so the Faculty of Law and Political Sciences responds to the challenge of globalisation by offering Students a wide range of courses of transdisciplinary character. Due to our several foreign language programs that welcome Students from all over the world, our professors are familiar with teaching their subjects in a multicultural environment and that they need to adjust the teaching material to the different needs and educational backgrounds of Students. Such aptitude allows not only law Students but also those who are just interested in the legal world to join the courses and make the best of their time in Szeged to complement their major studies.

Courses Offered at
FACULTY OF LAW AND POLITICAL SCIENCES
for IISMA 2023 Awardees

Name of Course	Course Code	Subject / Field of Study	Short Description	Expected Competencies	Number of ECTS Credits
Institutional and legal system of the EU with the aspect of internal market	O/BEL	law, international relations	This course offers a general overview of the core principles of the European Union (EU) legal system. The course focuses both on institutional and substantive law issues and explores the functioning of the unique creature of the EU.	Social intelligence, sense-making, transdisciplinarity, novel and adaptive thinking	5
EU Competition Law	O/EUCL	law, international relations	The course aims at providing the students with a broad overview of the economic, legal and public policy problems of contemporary competition law and policy and at equipping them with the basic conceptual tools that are necessary for analysing competition matters. At the end of the course, the participants will be capable of identifying the most important legal and economic issues in competition matters.	Social intelligence, sense-making, transdisciplinarity, novel and adaptive thinking	5
Basics of International Law	O/BOIL	law, international relations	The course aims to provide the students with the knowledge of the basic principles and sources of Public International Law. Students get a comprehensive overview of the legal side of international relations, especially for the treaties and responsibility of states, and the international settlement of disputes.	Social intelligence, sense-making, transdisciplinarity, novel and adaptive thinking	5

International Commercial Arbitration and Alternative Dispute Resolution in International Investment Transactions	O/ICAADRIIT	law, international relations	The primary aim is to provide a general overview of the basic themes of international commercial and investment dispute settlement, including issues like jurisdiction, applicable law and recognition and enforcement of judgments and arbitral awards	Social intelligence, sense-making, transdisciplinarity, novel and adaptive thinking	5
Contemporary Issues of Public Administration: Globalisation	O/CIPA	law, international relations	Different issues of actual problems are discussed like globalization of public administrative law, international administrative law, new tendencies and developments in administrative science or happenings which create challenges to public administration and the law determining its structure and functioning.	Social intelligence, sense-making, transdisciplinarity, novel and adaptive thinking	5
Tendencies in European Political Philosophy	O/TEPP	law, international relations	The course aims to trigger an understanding of central arguments in political philosophy and of the historical context in which political ideas developed; to foster the ability to analyse and discuss arguments in political philosophy and to communicate both orally and in writing arguments in political philosophy; to develop the ability to link and apply arguments of political philosophy to social and political issues; and the capacity to learn new ideas and approaches, and to apply them in research.	Social intelligence, sense-making, transdisciplinarity, novel and adaptive thinking	5
Parties and Political Systems in Europe	O/PPSE	law, international relations	The course provides an overview of the development of European political systems with a focus on the two pivotal institutions of political representation: political parties and elections.	Social intelligence, sense-making, transdisciplinarity, novel and adaptive thinking	5

Introduction to Common Law	O/ITCL	law, international relations	The main objective of the course is to provide an insight into the development of the common law tradition. This will be achieved by carrying out a comparative study of the UK, US, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.	Social intelligence, sense-making, transdisciplinarity, novel and adaptive thinking	5
Legal Profession in Different Legal Systems	O/LPDL	law, international relations	This course aims to familiarize students with the relationship between the study of law and the legal culture and society in various countries.	Social intelligence, sense-making, transdisciplinarity, novel and adaptive thinking	5